TAX ON LIQUOR TO GOVERNOR

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

PRESIDENT Roosevelt yesterday launched his legislative attack upon the utility holding companies. His program calls for the dissolution within five years of all super-corporations except those absolutely necessary for the operation of public utilities grouped together in the same section of the country.

Sales Tax Bill Is Passed by House, Sent to Governor

Carries by One-Vote Margin—Emergency Clause Later Is Adopted

LOCAL MEN OPPOSE

Thompson and Pilkinton, of Hempstead, Vote "No" in House

LITTLE ROCK.—The house passed the sales tax bill Tuesday by the closest possible majority—31 to 29. It was one of the few instances when every member of the body voted on a bill. A coincidence was that Carter of Plunkett, who cast the fifty-first vote for the Thorne liquor bill, cast the deciding vote on the sales tax measure. The emergency clause was adopted, 71 to 29.

The bill was called up at 4:10 p. m. after the house had spent most of the afternoon passing budget committee appropriation measures. Reints of Crawford moved to place it back on second reading for amendment, but the motion was defeated. He would have exempted the city of Van Buren from certain provisions, declaring that an amendment adopted several days ago exempted Fort Smith. However, this was denied by proponents of the bill, who said that only Texarkana had been exempted.

Pressure Charged
Both proponents and opponents of the bill measure spent considerable time during the day doing "missionary work." It was reported that Governor Futrell devoted much time to conferences with members. During debate, several members referred to "pressure" which they said had been "brought to bear."

Although Speaker Thorne had requested the sergeant-at-arms at the opening of yesterday's session to exclude visitors from the house chamber unless they were invited by members, the chamber was crowded. The galleries also were filled. There was frequent applauding, particularly when points were made by opponents.

Four Amendments
The bill, which passed the senate by the barest majority—18 to 17, on February 15—was amended in four respects by the house, while 17 others were rejected during a night session last week with Blair of Logan, Colvin of Perry and Holland of Sebastian leading the opposition.

One of the amendments would exclude from provisions of the bill, cities and towns whose business districts are separated by a state line. This would apply only to Texarkana. One would exempt necessities of life. Another amendment provided that 35 per cent of the revenue shall be placed to the credit of the general revenue fund and 65 per cent to the common school fund. Originally, the bill provided that all the revenue should be credited to the school fund. The third amendment exempted cotton and cottonseed products.

The senate, at its session Monday night, concurred in the house amendments, thus clearing the way for final passage Tuesday.

Thompson and Pilkinton, of Hempstead county, voted against the bill in the house.

North Arkansas Flees Before Flood

Flood Waters at Newport Highest Since 1927 Record

Town of Success, Clay County, Entirely Surrounded by Water

30 FT. ON OUACHITA

Crest of Flood Expected at Arkadelphia and Camden by Saturday

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Dozens of families left their homes Wednesday in Clay county, north of Newport, as flood waters reached the highest stage since 1927.

Crews rushed ballast to a point near Newport in an effort to save railroad tracks from being washed out.

Success, in Clay county, reported it was entirely surrounded by water.

Rivers in the north section of the state began dropping slowly Wednesday, while rises, some exceeding the flood stage, were forecast for the Arkansas river.

The crest stage is expected on the Ouachita river at Arkadelphia, and a stage of 30 feet at Camden, by Saturday.

By the Associated Press

Swirling flood waters of the Mississippi and its tributaries menaced homes in half a dozen states Wednesday while snow and rain storms swept across the South.

Hundreds of persons were driven from their homes in Illinois, Missouri and Mississippi by rising floods that crumpled the levees at Kennett, Mo., on the St. Francis river, and threatened a wide-spread rampage.

National guardsmen were ordered out in Missouri to help families evacuate the stricken area.

The East and Atlantic coast areas also were hit by rain and snow storms.

Traffic Hard Hit

LITTLE ROCK.—Despite the sunshine of Tuesday traffic in north Arkansas continued crippled as the result of heavy rains of Saturday, Sunday and Monday and streams in that section continued to rise.

White river is expected to reach the highest stages since the disastrous flood of 1927. Center had a stage of 32 feet Tuesday, 11 feet above flood stage, but it was believed that the crest had been reached.

Traffic on the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad between Kennett and Neosho, Mo., had stopped last night and it was reported that the roadbed had been badly damaged, especially in the vicinity of Eureka Springs.

Calico Rock had 41.1 feet, 8.4 feet above flood stage. The stage at Batesville was 11.9 feet above flood. A stage of 33 feet at Newport Friday is predicted.

Black river, a tributary of the White, had reached nearly 27 feet at Black Rock Tuesday.

Rises on the Ouachita, Little Red, and St. Francis rivers also were reported.

Big lake, west of Bluffville, was reported rising rapidly but it was believed that levees would hold.

The Weather Bureau last night predicted the following river stages: Arkansas river—Ozark, 20 feet, Thursday; Dardanelle, 22 feet, Friday; Morrilton, 22 feet, Saturday; Little Rock, 21 feet, Saturday; Pine Bluff, 23 feet, Monday.

The Black river is predicted to reach 27 feet at Black Rock today. The Ouachita river is scheduled to reach 18 feet by Saturday.

Form House Bloc to Fight Kingfish

Oklahoma Congressmen Leads New Attack on Vocal Louisianan

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The formation of an "anti-Long bloc" in the House of Representatives in an effort to whittle down the power of the kingfisher either by direct attack or ridicule, was under way Wednesday. The spearhead of the group is Representative P. L. Gassaway, Oklahoma Democrat.

Gassaway said 12 or 15 others are holding frequent consultations on the matter.

Call Issued for Track Candidates

First Practice at High School Held Wednesday Afternoon

Coach Foy Hammons issued a call Wednesday for candidates for the spring track team.

The first practice session, a light drill and warming up exercise, was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at the high school athletic field.

Among outstanding aspirants for the team are Freeman Stone, who Coach Hammons expects to develop into a weight man; "Tootsie" Cargile, hurdler; and Carl Jones, a half-mile runner.

Coach Hammons was at a loss to name any likely prospects for the dashes, pole vault, broad jump and other events.

Guy Payne, the mainstay of last season's squad, is ineligible because of the age limit.

175 to Appear in Glee Club Stunts

Well Known Citizens on High School Program Friday Night

The program for the fourth annual stunt night, to be presented by the High School Glee club Friday night at 7:30 in the high school auditorium, promises to be the most varied and colorful of all such performances given here. More than 175 characters will participate in the 20 stunts registered. Many of those taking part are prominent citizens.

Superintendent Beryl Henry will preside as master of ceremonies, while the student council, with Willard Anderson as president, will serve as hosts and pages.

J. W. Harper, Glee club business manager, announced these committees Tuesday:

Ushers—Garret Story, chief; Alice Louise Wallace, Lynette McKamie, Winfred Dabbs, Dennis Richards, and Gordon Bayless.

Tickets—Beatrice Gordon, Mary Louise Dadds, Mable Barnum, Pauline M. Jones, and Helen Holloman.

Stage—A. D. Middlebrooks, manager; J. W. Franks, Henry Taylor, Herbert Reynerson, Arthur Lee Hargis and Don Reynerson.

Decorations—Lynn Bayless, Pauline H. Jones, Geraldine Murphy, Melba Lee Russell, and Floy Mae Wisener.

Electrician—Herman Valentine.

Tickets will be on sale Thursday morning and may be purchased from any Glee club member.

Clubs are asked to register by Wednesday night. No registrations will be accepted after that date. Registrations are to be made with Mrs. John Wellborn.

2 Persons Bitten by Dogs Suspected of Having Rabies

Warning Issued Wednesday by County and City Authorities

ONE DOG IS LOOSE

Couple Living on Hope-DeAnn Road Undergoing Treatment

Warnings were issued Wednesday by city and county health officers that two persons had been bitten by dogs suspected of having rabies.

Mayor R. A. Boyett, after a conference with Dr. G. H. Martindale, county health officer, announced that city police would take steps to keep unmuzzled dogs from running loose on the streets.

The two suspected rabies cases, involving a Mr. and Mrs. Ross who reside on the Hope-DeAnn road were reported by Dr. Martindale.

Both persons are under treatment. One of the dogs was killed; the other is running at large.

"Any person bitten by a dog should be examined at once," Dr. Martindale warned.

"When dogs act unusual or show signs of illness, they should be kept up and watched closely for several days."

"If rabies-stricken, the dog will die within a few days, unless treated. If the dog has only a fit from worms or other causes, it will probably survive. In either case the dog should be shut up and observed closely," Dr. Martindale concluded.

Repeal Voted by the Texas Senate

Bill Providing for Referendum August 24 Goes to Lower House

AUSTIN, Texas.—(AP)—The Texas senate adopted, 20 to 0, and sent to the house Tuesday a resolution proposing repeal of state constitutional prohibition. The resolution provided for an election next August 24. If citizens voted to repeal prohibition, articles could be kept dry by local option. Sale of hard liquors in broken packages and consumption on premises where sold would be prohibited.

Last-minute efforts to change the proposed election date to the 1936 general election and to eliminate the phrase "providing for local option" from the ballot were defeated.

The band of the Beaumont, Texas, high school won first place in the state-wide contest for six consecutive years. Therefore it is not permitted to compete in the 1935 events.

Applying for the job of springing the death trap on Frank McDaniel, condemned murderer, because "she would like to see how it feels to hang a man," Thelma fledger, above, attractive 20-year-old Springfield, Mo., business college student, declared she has plenty of "nerve for that sort of thing." The sheriff declined to depuize her, because she is a minor.

Stopping Erosion Vital, Says O'Neal

He Raps Lazy Farmers for Letting Good Earth Wash Away

Editor The Star: Lots is going around about pensions, relief workers, income taxes, inheritance taxes and many other pertinent matters.

"From him that hath shall be taken and given to him that hath not," etc. The good old plan of thrift, frugality, industry, perseverance and persistence has lost out, and we now have the 30 and 40 hour week with the hill billies all crowding to town to get on the relief rolls and work 30 hours a week, whereas on the farms a man who makes good is at it 15 hours a day, and mostly several days a week.

I have suggested it is unwise to permit any man or company to own and control more land than he can actually cultivate or manage, for one family in any event not over 320 acres.

But if such a rule were in effect where would all the lands be now? I know many farmers who have had very good farms, lay up in bed, or chase off fishing, and finally let their farms go, whereas these big places have an energetic man at their head and he can't quit.

America will eventually have to look at her farms for a living. We are doing it now, but with no system. The rate at which our lands are rushing off to the Gulf of Mexico as silt, is simply appalling, and but little attention is directed to stopping it.

I believe that every man who owns land should be compelled to begin, when he first clears a piece of land, to terrace it, protect it from waste. It does not belong to him. It belongs to posterity, and he should be compelled to take care of it for posterity.

I don't know how to put the spurs under folks so they will develop some independence. How the sun will can one persuade a negro to take any care of his home. It just can't be done. He sits around and lets the thing rot down on top of his head. "I ain't interested in no piece of land, I want to terrace it, protect it from waste. It does not belong to him. It belongs to posterity, and he should be compelled to take care of it for posterity."

Futrell to Sign Thorn Bill After 50th Session Ends

Governor to Speak at Closing Exercises Thursday Noon

TAV 45c A GALLON

House Again Defeats Motion to Extend Present Session

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Urged to action by Governor Futrell in a special message, the house Wednesday passed a bill levying an excise tax of 45 cents a gallon on liquor, and approved a law enforcement measure giving the chief executive power to "drive bootleggers out of the state."

Both measures came from the senate and approval by the house sent them to the governor, who promised the lower branch in a personal visit during the morning to sign the Thorne liquor bill, which would end the 13-year-old bone dry law in this state.

The governor said he would sign the liquor bill within a few days, but indicated it would be after the legislature adjourns since the Thursday session adjourns Monday.

The senate defeated the house bill to increase the personnel of the Confederate Home Board from five to seven members.

The senate also defeated a house bill making it a felony to steal chickens.

No Extension
The house turned down for the second time a resolution to extend the session.

It voted down overwhelmingly a concurrent resolution to extend the session until Saturday. There was practically no debate. The house had turned down a resolution Monday which sought to extend the session nine days.

The house also defeated a bill by Richardson, of Columbia county, which would have provided that funds from the sales tax and other taxes levied for the schools would be distributed by the State Education Board and the State Welfare Commission.

By resolution, the house invited Governor Futrell to speak during the closing exercises Thursday.

Enforcement Bill Passes

LITTLE ROCK.—The liquor law enforcement bill, introduced Monday by Senators Johnson and others as Senate Bill 534, was passed at the senate's session Tuesday night, 24 to 10, and as the house previously had passed the original measure it is expected that the substitute will meet little opposition in that branch.

Governor Futrell has announced he will not sign the Thorne liquor bill, awaiting his signature, until after the legislature passes the enforcement measure.

The senate also passed House Bill 518 (Raney), as amended, appropriating a total of $7,500,000 for the state Public Welfare Commission out of new revenue that may be provided. The vote was 34 to 0. The bill now will go back to the house for concurrence in senate amendments, most of which were requested Monday by FERA officials.

Eight bills were passed and one was defeated Tuesday night.

Gatherings Against One Change
Passage of the Hall two per cent sales tax bill was assured when the senate concurred in the four house amendments. Gatherings of Crittenden raised the only objections to the house.

Markets

Cotton
NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—Opening 8 to 15 points higher, the cotton market here Wednesday continued to rally during the early trade and pushed old crop futures up about a dollar a bale.

A good Liverpool market coupled with the reassuring statement by Senator Smith of South Carolina regarding the government plan for cotton were responsible for the upturn.

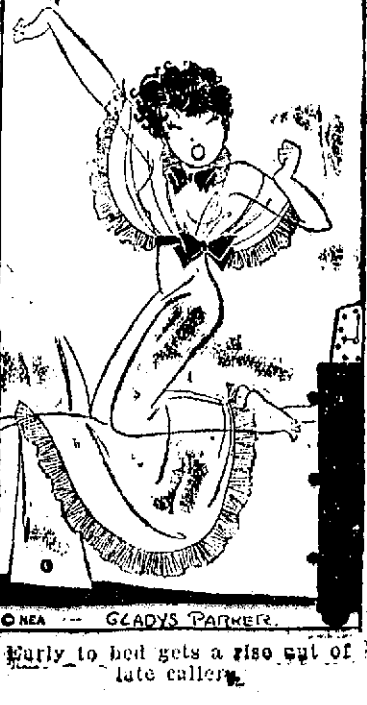

May opened at 11.10 and advanced to 11.17, while July opened at 11.19 and 11.17, and December at 10.93, and then staged a small advance from their first prices.

Trading was still running at the high pace set Monday and Tuesday.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, eight to 18 points advance on higher Liverpool cables and trade and commission house buying. March 11.13; May 11.20; July 11.25; October 10.90; December 10.93; January 10.92.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—When an administration bites a lobbyist, that's news. This one sank its teeth into several lobbyists when it signed the new tariff treaty with Belgium. Their yelps of dismay coincide with astonished gasps from many cynics who had been saying that pressure had stymied Secretary of State Cordell Hull's deeply beloved program of reciprocal tariff treaties.

Tariff lobbyists who used to get their log-rolling done by Congress must now vary their technique.

They begin, when suspecting that duties on certain foreign products are likely to be reduced by treaty with another nation in return for similar concessions, by spreading propaganda, declaring that the entire duty will be removed—though law limits Roosevelt to a 50 per cent change.

Then they attempt to contact individuals in the state and commerce departments who are preparing the treaty. If they can establish social relations, so much the better.

If they haven't any channel into the White House, as some have, they try to get congressmen to take them there—as a California congressman recently took lobbyists for the wine industry who were worried over possible treaties with Italy and Spain.

Heavy pressure came from the cement and glass industries prior to the Belgian treaty. They were represented by J. B. Colburn, former tariff commission lawyer, who is associated with a New York firm, one of whose partners was once a government lawyer handling customs cases.

Each country cut duties on about 56 of the other's commodities, including an American reduction of 33 1-3 per cent on plate glass, 25 per cent on cement, and 15 to 25 on certain steel products.

Thus, the administration took a mid-

March and April Worst Period For Measles

March and April are the worst months for measles. In Illinois, 2599 new cases of measles were reported in the third week in February—the highest mark thus far reached this year. Measles also is especially prevalent at this time in Wisconsin, Iowa, and Kansas.

Measles has been called the commonest of all infectious diseases. It appears in all climates and affects all races. It is likely to be less prevalent in rural districts than in the cities, because it spreads from one person to another.

Although measles usually attacks children, it occasionally attacks adults also. This is particularly the case in sparsely inhabited areas, such as tropical islands and northern Canada, where the disease is less likely to attack in infancy. During an epidemic of measles in Labrador, most of the cases occurred among grown-up people, including some from 50 to 60 years of age.

While the cause of measles is not definitely known, the condition is recognized as infectious. It may be transferred from one person to another by injecting the blood from an infected person to one who is not infected.

The characteristic sign of measles is the eruption which appears on the skin about the fourth day, usually on the back of the neck and behind the ears, and then spreading to the front of the face, the trunk, and the thighs; the palms and the soles of the feet are usually the last to be affected.

This eruption usually lasts about three days, but sometimes as long as eight. In a few cases it may appear suddenly and disappear on the same day.

The chief danger is not from the disease itself, but from the complications which affect ears, eyes, and most of all, the chest. Fatalities occur more from pneumonia and tuberculosis which follow, than the measles itself.

The highest number of deaths occurs in infancy. After the age of 10, the number of deaths from measles is very low.

Nowadays we have a specific method of treating measles. It involves use of serum of the blood taken from a person who has recently recovered from the disease. In prevention of measles, this serum may be injected into the body, to give the person who receives it the protection afforded by the resistance of the person who has had the disease and recovered.

Use of this serum is especially recommended in cases of infants and children below 3 years of age who were in contact with the disease, because the death rate is highest at this age.

The convalescent serum used for children also is recommended in orphan asylums and institutions of various kinds, where children are crowded together and in which measles, once it appears, may spread rapidly.

How You and I Give Help to Criminals

"Ten Thousand Public Enemies," by Courtney Ryley Cooper, is probably the best popularized account of modern America's crime situation that has yet been written.

Mr. Cooper surveys the activities of such men as Dillinger, Bailey, Karpis, Floyd, and Barker, and tells how it happens that Department of Justice men have been able to put such a grip on them; in telling this long and interesting story, he makes a number of excellent points.

Chief among these is his insistence that large-scale crime exists in America because the public lets it exist. The public does this by putting up with rotten politics, which hamstring police, perverts courts, and makes a mess of parole laws; by displaying the kind of erotic sentimentality which makes heroes out of crooks; and by failing to demand revision of criminal law, prison administration, and

HARRY GRAYSON

One of the most interesting highlights of the recent Santa Anita Handicap was the renewal of the lifelong duel of three old-timers—Equipoise, Twenty Grand, and Mate. None figured strongly in the running of the big event won by Azucar, but it was none the less remarkable that the three were in there trying.

Their duels began in 1930, when each was a 2-year-old. The history of the battles of these three would fill a book.

In their first year of campaigning, Ekky took the measure of the unbeaten Vanderpool, and tangled with Twenty Grand three times, losing two of the races. Mate whipped them both, and lost to both on other occasions.

All three met in duel No. 1 in the Junior Champion mile, and Twenty Grand staged a magnificent battle out in front of the pack. But the gallant Equipoise, by an effort that never can be forgotten, caught them and sloshed over the finish line a half-length ahead. Twenty Grand was second, a head over Mate.

Ekky bows out—and in As 3-year-olds, they stepped out together in the Preakness. Mate won it in track record time. Twenty Grand finished second after interference, and Ekky was unplaced. Equipoise then broke down, and in the Kentucky Derby the following week, Twenty Grand smashed the Derby record by nearly two seconds. Mate finished third in the classic.

The Greentree horse became 3-year-old champion of the year, his Derby triumph being his greatest. But he suffered another defeat by Mate before the year was over, when he finished third to the Postwick thoroughbred in the Classic Stakes at Arlington.

At 4, Twenty Grand was broken down and Mate had lost his form. But a patched-up Equipoise became the handicapped king of the year. At 5 he also was supreme in this division, and Twenty Grand had been retired to the stud.

At 6, Ekky's old ailments began to bother him again. Nevertheless, he generally was recognized as the best of the year among the oldsters. Mate had gone to England, where, under excessive high weights, he won one race and placed in several others.

Happy Reunion. Then came the Santa Anita Handicap. This $100,000 attraction acted as a magnet to draw the three together again. Twenty Grand had put in two years in the stud, but he answered the call and was put back in training. Mate returned from England to compete in the rich race, and Equipoise was shipped west to run.

Six days before the event, Twenty Grand, after several periods of lameness, stepped out against Equipoise for the first time in years. In the stretch they staged another of their famous finishes. Ekky won, but was disqualified for fouling.

The three oldsters met for perhaps the last time in the Santa Anita. They finished—Mate sixth, Equipoise seventh, Twenty Grand 10th.

Thus, it would appear that at last one must write finish to the careers of perhaps the three greatest competitors that ever waged battle against one another. Together they have earned more than $200,000, and the remarkable part of it is they earned a large part of it running against one another.

SO THEY SAY

Beauty Must Be Built on Firm Foundation.

"My makeup simply won't stay on," complains a reader. "In spite of good cream and careful application of the finest powder I can buy, my face always looks shiny and badly groomed. Do you think I ought to use a foundation of some kind?"

I certainly do think everyone should use foundation cream or lotion. Not only does it give the skin a smooth, satiny finish, but actually makes cosmetics adhere infinitely longer.

Getting Ready For Another Season

There are various types of foundations, of course. The thick lotions generally are best for dry and normal skins and the creams seem to suit oily complexions. One girl I know uses hand lotion as a foundation and finds that it does the trick perfectly.

Don't be afraid to suit a good price for a foundation that suits you. Since only a few drops per day are needed, by comparison it will last much longer than your other preparations. A particularly good foundation lotion that is made in many shades to match various skins comes in a diminutive bottle with a small opening. Only five drops are needed for each fresh makeup—one on chin, one on each cheek, another across the forehead and a fifth on the nose. Blend the drops; smooth your throat with whatever remains on the fingers. If your neck is particularly dry, put an extra drop there.

Another good foundation—this is a cream and comes in a jar—acts as a tissue cream and powder base at the same time. It's pale pink in color, good for any type of skin and really does hold powder in place for hours.

There was one consolation he enjoyed. Brian knew that Thatcher, for all his thievery and money-grubbing, had been able to take little with him on his hurried departure. The man who had worshipped gold had lost his idol.

The telephone on Brian's desk rang again and he picked it up. He listened, said, "Oh, yes. Ask her to come in, will you?"

When a moment later, the door opened and Gale Henderson stood on the threshold Brian was entirely the executive, clear-eyed, impersonal.

Gale said, "You sent for me?"

"Yes. Won't you come in?" She closed the door behind her. Brian, without rising, motioned her to a chair. He went on, "Yes, I wanted to talk to you. We're making a number of changes in the mill, as you may know—rearranging schedules, adding employees, letting some go."

Gale nodded. "I want to thank you," she said, "for taking my brother back."

Brian waved this aside. "I understand he's a good workman. We need more of them. We're taking back as many as possible who have been let out in the last six months. We'll need them. There's going to be work for them."

Gale knew what he said was true. Mary Cassidy was back in the mill now. So were dozens of others.

Brian looked down at the page of figures on his desk, quickly glanced up. "That brings me to the reason I wanted to see you," he said. "Miss Groves, the former personnel director, left several days ago. There's no one in her place. I've been wondering if you'd like it."

"You mean—?"

"I'm asking you"—Brian frowned slightly—"if you'd like to take over the work of the personnel director. I suppose you know something of what it means—interviews with the women employees, keeping closely in touch with them, working out problems that need adjustment. It's work that calls for tact and understanding. I think you might step into the place and handle it in a way that would be much more helpful, from the management's point of view, than an outsider could."

"I don't know if I could do it," Gale said slowly, "but—oh, I'd like to try!"

"Then it's settled. Drop in this afternoon and have a talk with Mr. Cunningham. He'll tell you more about the work in detail. Mr. Cunningham was in the mill with my father. I'm sure you'll like working with him. About salary—"

The figure he named took Gale's breath. It was more money than she had had at any time since she had been working.

She said, "I can't tell you now how grateful I am!"

Brian smiled for the first time during the interview. "Then don't try," he said.

"But I must! I want to tell you, too, that I'm sorry for the things I said that night you came and offered to help Phil. I didn't mean them. I'm terribly sorry."

Brian cut in, "Forget about it. It doesn't matter."

"But it does!"

He was eyeing her closely. "You mean—?"

Gale said, beneath lowered lashes, "I mean I know you were trying to help us. She hesitated, then went on, "You've done so much for everyone else. I hope what's happened isn't going to spoil your happiness."

"What in the world are you talking about?"

Gale colored. "I was trying to say I hope Miss Thatcher's going away isn't going to change things. I mean about your marriage."

Brian stared. "Marriage?" he exclaimed. "What marriage?"

"Why yours and Miss Thatcher's?"

"You think I'm going to marry Vicky Thatcher? Where did you ever get an idea like that?"

"She told me. She said the wedding was going to be in June. That's why—coming so soon—"

Brian interrupted. "When did all this happen?" he asked. "When did Vicky tell you that?"

"The night you and she came to my house."

"That night—" Brian uttered a sharp exclamation. "The little liar!" he said. "Why, she's as bad as her father. The little liar! And so Vicky has been responsible for all this!"

He was on his feet now. "Listen, Gale," he said, earnestly. "I'm not engaged to Vicky Thatcher. I never have been. There isn't anybody—anybody in the world, do you understand?—I'll ever be engaged to except you. I told you before that I love you and I mean it. I love you, darling, with all my heart!"

She raised eyes that were shining. She said, "Oh, Brian—I!"

It was later that Gale said, "I can hardly believe everything's happened the way it has. It's all so wonderful."

"Everything's going to be wonderful from now on," Brian told her. "Wonderful for you and me."

"But that's not all I mean," Gale corrected. "I mean it's so wonderful about the people who are back at work, the things you've done for them, and for the mill. I want to help, Brian, in every way I can."

"You will," he grinned. "It's the day of the New Deal," he told her. "A New Deal for the mill—and for you and me. Oh, that reminds me—"

He paused, then went on, assuming a pose of mock dignity: "Miss Henderson, I have assumed the inestimable privilege of offering you my hand in honorable marriage. May I have your heart?"

Gale shook her head. "I don't see how I could give it to you," she said. "I don't see how I possibly could, because—you've had it for so long!"

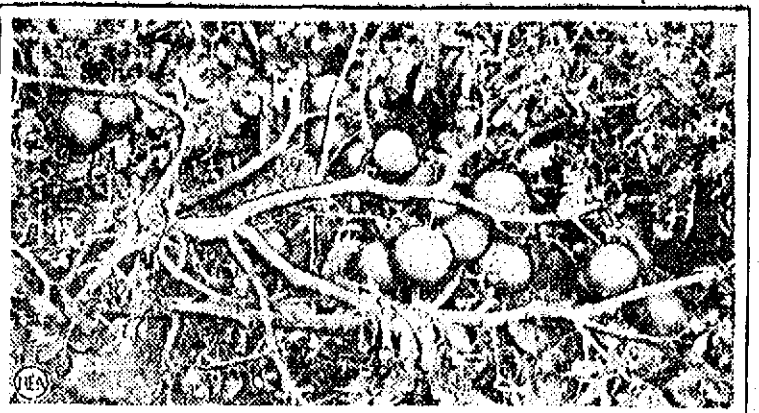

He answered exactly as she had hoped he would.

THE END.

How Does Your Garden?

Six specialists of the New Jersey College of Agriculture and Experiment Station at Rutgers University have pooled their experience to tell you how to grow your garden successfully. They have prepared 12 illustrated articles.

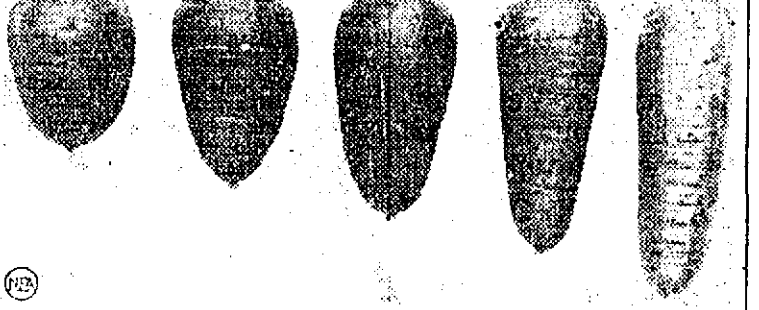

BY PROF. C. H. NISSLEY
Extension Horticulturist, N. J. College of Agriculture and Experiment Station, Rutgers University.

Shown above is a healthy tomato plant of good quality. Note the strong vine growth, which is sufficiently abundant to grow a good crop. Plants like this are not the result of accident; they are the result of careful attention to a few essential principles.

Good seed and a well-drained soil are elementary requirements. The soil should be well supplied with plant nutrients.

Application of a little lime and manure, or lime and a 5-8-7 commercial fertilizer, will make up for lack of plant nutrients. A good tomato plant, properly grown, will be resistant to wilt.

Carrot varieties, as is apparent above, differ in shape and size. The short varieties should be grown in heavy soils, and the longer ones in lighter soil. Well-drained soil and an abundance of plant nutrients are requisite.

Fresh manure, however, should not be applied previous to planting, although well-rotted manure is satisfactory. A 5-8-7 fertilizer is recommended.

Above are shown differing varieties of radishes, some flat, some round, and others of the long type. Radishes are a popular crop to grow, since they require only 24 to 26 days in which to mature. Be careful not to plant the seed too closely together, as a spindly plant will result from crowding in the row.

Claudette Colbert at Saenger 2 Days

"The Gilded Lily" Claimed as One of Her Best Pictures

"The Gilded Lily," the new Claudette Colbert starring vehicle which comes Thursday and Friday to the Saenger theater, is a romantic and frothy comedy that boasts a totally new and unconventional approach on the romantic angle.

Assisted by Fred MacMurray and Ray Milland in the principal supporting roles, Miss Colbert is cast as a pretty stenographer who is dead set against marrying a millionaire. Her idea of a connubial bliss is a husband who is poor and struggling, someone whose hardships she can share.

She thinks she has found the man of her dreams, but when he turns out to be a wealthy English nobleman traveling incognito in the United States, she drops him in a hurry. The resulting publicity spurge brings the obscure little secretary into the limelight, makes her the most sought after woman on two continents.

For the while Miss Colbert basks in the glory of her new position. Then she goes to London where she meets the nobleman again. When she tries to renew the romance, she suddenly realizes that the only person she loved is the boy she has left back in New York—her regular Thursday night date!

This is claimed by those that have seen it, Miss Colbert's best picture, capturing her outstanding performance in "It Happened One Night."

Ray Turner High Scorer for Hope

Local Forward Rolled Up Total of 239 Points in 25 Games

Ray Turner, stellar Bobcat basketball forward, was the leading scorer in the 25-game schedule of the Hope High School team this season.

Records compiled Wednesday by Mrs. Foy H. Hammons showed that Turner looped the basket for a total of 239 points. Captain R. C. Kennedy was second with 228 points.

Coach Foy Hammons announced that six players would receive letters. They are: Kennedy, Turner, Reese, England, Cargile and Stone.

The season record of each player:

the following six months, with a 32 per cent boost for meat.

Abandonment of the old policy was haphazard. Bean's figures happened to be on Wallace's desk when the secretary didn't have much to tell a press conference. They had been prepared only for departmental circulation. It was as if Wallace had suddenly said to himself: "Oh, what the heck. Let 'em know the worst."

Somebody asked if he could suggest a cheap menu and Wallace suggested: "Every Wednesday, eat whatever you like."

But if you write the Bureau of Home Economics in Wallace's department, it will send you some low-cost diets.

NRA Defeats Discounted
New Deal lawyers aren't especially worried by decisions of judges in Delaware and Kentucky that NIRA is unconstitutional because production is intrastate, rather than interstate, and hence can't be regulated by congress.

It is fair to report now that Department of Justice attorneys had little hope of winning the Wierion case involving Section 7-a before Federal Judge Nichols at Wilmington or the code case before Judge Dawson at Louisville.

They whispered all along that they were only building cases which would stand up on appeal, with the supreme court's ultimate attitude most in mind. Federal lawyers by now have most federal judges classified as "pro-New Deal" and "anti-New Deal." In most cases they know who the politicians were who obtained their appointments and something about the forces behind these politicians.

Ford Gets 56% of Increase in Sales

Passenger Cars Up 70½% in 1934, and Trucks Up 105½%

The contribution of the automobile industry toward national business recovery in 1934 was shown graphically Wednesday in a recapitulation of national automobile registration figures of the Ford Motor Company for the past year.

The figures showed heavy gains registered in automobile sales during the year, with the Ford company far ahead in actual unit sales gain during 1934 over registrations in 1933.

Of the entire industry's gain of 552,180 car and truck sales in 1934 over the previous year, Ford V-8 passenger and commercial cars accounted for approximately 56 per cent, or 285,265 units, the figures showed.

Ford passenger car sales in 1934 showed an increase of 70.5 per cent over Ford registrations during the previous year, while Ford V-8 truck sales gained 105.5 per cent during 1934—the greatest truck gain in the entire industry for the year. A total of 530,528 Ford V-8 passenger cars were registered in 1934, as compared with 311,113 units in 1933.

Launching a vigorous sales campaign in 1934, at the introduction of the 1934 cars and trucks, the Ford company during 1934 also piled up the greatest percentage and unit gain in sales of the three large manufacturers in the low priced field.

Passenger car sales gains of the other two companies were 21.2 per cent and 26.4 per cent respectively, compared with the Ford gain of 70.5 per cent.

Ford showed a total registration of passenger cars and trucks during 1934 of 658,778 units in the United States alone. This figure does not include Canadian or foreign sales.

amendments. He spoke in opposition to the amendment abolishing a proposed exemption area within 10 miles of Memphis, which would exempt West Memphis, his home town, from provisions of the sales tax. The senate voted 19 to 11, to retain the house amendment.

No opposition was voiced to the amendment exempting food and necessities and medicines, but Senator Barney asked for a roll call, which recorded the amendment as adopted, 28 to 3.

The amendments to exempt cotton and cottonseed and to distribute the revenue between the common schools and the general revenue fund were adopted viva voce.

Several Oppose Police Bill
The governor's liquor law enforcement bill was passed after opposition had been voiced by Ward of Lee, Milum, Wilson and Molloway. The bill provides for an automobile driver's license fee of 50 cents annually, and a $50,000 annually for maintenance of a state police force gives greater powers to circuit judges in enforcement of the liquor law.

Ward of Lee charged that the state police force set up under the bill would be inadequate to patrol the state's 8,000 miles of highways. He joined the debate in opposition to the bill back on second reading for amendment was defeated.

Hardy, Hall, Cole and Ellis spoke for the bill, which in addition to carrying appropriations totaling about $53,000 annually for maintenance of a state police force gives greater powers to circuit judges in enforcement of the liquor law.

Step into The Comfort Zone of the beautiful FORD V-8 FOR 1935

RIDE in the back seat of the new Ford V-8 for 1935—and you will experience the most important Ford contribution to motoring since the introduction of the Ford V-8 engine!

In the rear seat of the new Ford V-8, you now ride with "front seat comfort."

This is made possible by a new and exclusive Ford development—the Full-floating Springbase with Comfort Zone Seating, explained in the diagram at the right.

New riding ease, however, is only one of many important improvements in the Ford V-8 for 1935.

There's new driving ease. Women particularly will appreciate this. Less foot-pressure is required to apply the new brakes. Starting and shifting are simplified. Although the new Ford V-8 is longer and bigger, it still retains the handling ease of a 112-inch wheelbase car.

Women will want the 1935 Ford V-8 for its new beauty also. This car has style in the finest sense of the word—a beautiful streamlined body and interior appointments that strike a new note in modernity and good taste.

Ford has always endeavored to give you the utmost in value for your money. The 1935 Ford V-8 does this more fully than any previous Ford car. Safety glass all around is included at no extra cost. New, larger tires are standard equipment. New crankcase ventilation lessens oil dilution. You get a Fordor sedan with room for three in back, three in front, and a large luggage compartment behind the rear seat.

Come in and see this new Ford V-8 today.

Note how the springs of the new Ford V-8 are placed out beyond the front and rear axles and serve only to cushion the load. They provide a long springbase for riding ease, and retain the 112-inch wheelbase for handling ease. Both front and rear seats are cradled between the springs—enabling all passengers to ride in the Comfort Zone.

Socialist Thomas Lauds Land Union

Attacks Robinson, Caraway and Long for Not Beginning at Home

LITTLE ROCK — (AP) — Norman Thomas, head of the American Socialist party, Wednesday made a personal appeal to Governor Frazier for a state investigation into eastern Arkansas share-chopper conditions and was told that no money was available for such investigation.

Thomas speaks of differences between tenants and landlords in eastern Arkansas constitutes a national and not a local problem. Norman Thomas, Socialist party leader, said in addressing an audience that filled the auditorium of the East Side Junior High School Tuesday night, and he added that the situation in that section is but one aspect of a nationwide condition that can be permanently corrected only by a change in the economic and governmental system.

"Arkansas cannot solve this question alone," he said, "and I doubt if America can solve it except as part of a large problem."

Mr. Thomas said emphatically that he was not in Arkansas as one who "comes from Elysian fields into realms of darkness," an allusion he has no desire to point out faults in the prevailing practices in Arkansas above those of other states.

"I do not regard Arkansas as a sinner above other states," he said. "On the contrary, I regard it as a credit to Arkansas that men have organized peacefully and valiantly to correct practices which exist here and elsewhere. I have seen worse conditions in other sections. The great problem that we must all face is one that can be faced and must be faced together, and as long as poverty can exist in the midst of plenty, there is something vitally and cruelly wrong."

Mr. Thomas dwelt humorously on his reminiscences of a previous visit to Little Rock during his 1928 campaign for president on the Socialist ticket. He said that his Little Rock speaking engagement coincided with a campaign preceding a primary election, and that the noise made by the speakers must have prevented his arrival from becoming trumpeted about since he had only a small audience at that time.

He said the Socialist party has no connection with the Southern Tenant Farmers Union, and that his own interest in the eastern Arkansas labor movement is a "godfatherly" one which had its beginning about a year ago when he investigated the federal government's administration of the AAA crop control program. He voiced pride in the peaceful and disciplined manner in which the union has been organized and conducted, and said that the report made by Mrs. Mary Connor Myers, AAA investigator, who spent about three weeks in Poinsett and adjoining counties to study conditions, should be made public.

Mr. Thomas deplored the lack of congressional investigation into AAA crop control administration and criticized conditions, and severely criticized Senator Joe T. Robinson, as Democratic leader of the senate, for his failure to act in the present emergency or to investigate the conditions among sharecroppers of the South and Southwest.

He said that Senator Hattie W. Caraway should be even more interested in conditions among sharecroppers' children and sharecroppers' families, since she is the only woman in the only woman in the senate and said that Senator Huey P. Long had referred to her as "a fearless and independent woman who always voted as she said."

Long also came in for criticism from Thomas, who declared that his "Share-the-Wealth" views overlooked the situation right at hand in the cotton states, and that Long could well devote some of his efforts in the senate to correction of existing conditions in the South.

F. D. Policy, Error, Says 'Alfalfa Bill'

Murray Lambasts Long, Says Robinson Will Beat Him Here

LITTLE ROCK — The Roosevelt administration is "off the track" in raising prices, centralizing government activities and restricting production, "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, Oklahoma's ex-governor, said Tuesday.

"They're trying hard, but they're off the track and they know it," he said, pushing back the dampened ends of his bristling mustaches. "You can't kill the goose that lays the golden eggs, and have anything left. That's what they're doing when they tell the farmer that he plant just this much, and not an acre more."

This year will tell the tale whether we continue under the present administrative policies, or turn to something else," he predicted.

He turned to national politics with the prediction that President Roosevelt will "slide right back into office in 1936" with little difficulty.

"You can't beat power," he explained. "They've got it and plenty to spare for 1936. He'll go right down the line."

An inquiry as to whether he thought Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana was a potential leader of a revolution evoked a snort that knocked cigar ashes into his coffee cup.

"He hasn't got the right kind of a nose," he snipped. "It takes power, the kind Mussolini's got, a big nose, a strong jaw, a real will. Huey could start it, but he couldn't control it. It would get a way from him before he knew it. He is smart, as smart as they come, and intelligent, but not a forceful leader."

Huey is a man to be watched, especially if he invades Arkansas with his eye on Senator Joe T. Robinson, he added.

"Robinson can beat him at his own game, if Joe is as adroit as I believe he is, if it comes to a showdown," he said.

Zoologists say a large elephant eats about half a ton of hay each day and often drinks 50 gallons of water without stopping.

Archaeologists say the dog was the only domestic animal of the early Indian tribes in the lower Mississippi valley.

Love Quadrangle Figures in Court

Here are courtroom studies of the two married couples involved in Los Angeles' bizarre "love quadrangle" trial. Testifying in a counter-action to her husband's divorce suit, Mrs. Walter W. Emerson stated that she paired off with Barton Sewell, wealthy Beverly Hills ranchman, while her actor-director husband was paired with Mrs. Sewell. The arrangement was amiable, Mrs. Emerson said.

F. D. Opens Fight Upon Power Trust

Holding Company Abolition Bitterest Issue Before Congress

WASHINGTON — (AP) — With the dictum that "to avoid government socialism" congress must have all except "necessary" public utility holding companies, President Roosevelt Tuesday sent to the capital a 12-point plan for dealing with the subject.

Elaborating sharply in the same special message at what he called organized "propaganda" against the projected legislation, the president was met with a renewed opposition. A few hours after delivery of his message, two utility groups hit back, asserting that he had "prejudged" the case and expressing "astonishment" at his words.

Mr. Roosevelt left little doubt, however, that the weight of the administration would be behind the effort to push through utility holding company legislation at this session. After hitting at what he called "propaganda" to exploit the most far-fetched and fallacious fears, which, he said, left him "unimpressed," Mr. Roosevelt added: "Except where it is absolutely necessary to the continued functioning of a geographically integrated operating utility system the utility holding company with its present powers must go."

But the replies of opponents of the Wheeler-Rayburn bill generally to ban public utility holding companies in five years were both heated and strong. One of the warmest fights of the session appeared in prospect.

Among the repercussions from the presidential message were: The American Federation of Utility Investors, through its president, H. S. Magill, said tonight that the president's message had the effect of giving impetus to the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, which he called "autocratic," "executive" and "unconstitutional." The president's words, he said, indicated a state of mind that "completely disregards the plans of the people in the exercise of their constitutional right to provide their own government for a redress of grievance."

Hot Springs Clubman One of Four Indicted at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — (AP) — Beverly Brown, Clarence (Gully) Owen and William Molinsky, officials of Brown-Owen, Inc., wholesale liquor firm here, surrendered Tuesday to an indictment returned against them Friday by the Federal Grand Jury.

The three gave $5,000 bond. A fourth defendant, for whom a warrant has been issued, was William S. Jacobs of Hot Springs, Ark. He had not surrendered late Tuesday.

The indictment was suppressed on motion of the United States attorney and the precise nature of the charges were not made public.

It was known, however, that shipment of liquor into dry territory was a subject under investigation.

William S. Jacobs, indicted at St. Louis in connection with an alleged violation of federal liquor laws, is operator of Belvedere Club and the

Million Is Spent to Convict Bruno

Total Figure Is Revealed Before New Jersey Legislature

TRENTON, N. J. — More than $1,000,000 was spent to catch and try Bruno Richard Hauptmann, according to an estimate by Assistant Attorney General Joseph A. Lanigan Tuesday, when the joint legislative appropriation committee approved a supplemental appropriation of $80,000 to defray the remaining expenses of the murder trial at Flemington. Two previous grants, one for $35,000 and the other for $15,000 were made from the emergency fund of the statehouse commission.

In estimating the total cost, Lanigan included the cost of the two and one-half years of investigation to the state of New Jersey, the city of New York, and by the federal government.

The cost of the German's appeal will be borne by the defense and not by the state of New Jersey, it was announced by Frederick A. Pope, defense lawyer. It is estimated that the cost of the appeal will run to more than $10,000. The state had agreed to bear the expense of the appeal when Hauptmann took the pauper's oath. No intimation was given as to where the money for the defense will come from.

but it is thought at least a part of the fund which had been raised by Mrs. Hauptmann in her appearance before Hauptmann rallies in metropolitan New York, will be used. Mrs. Hauptmann plans to extend her campaign to other cities with large German populations.

New Bombings Hit Cuba; Strike Fails

Workmen Returning to Their Jobs Upon Government's Urging

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — A new wave of terrorism swept Havana late Tuesday shortly after Lieut. Col. Jose Pedraza, military governor of the province, ordered all pedestrians and motorists off the streets after 9 each night. Some observers said they believed the curfew law was an effort to nip any nocturnal movement against President Carlos Mendieta's government.

Heavy shooting broke out in several parts of the capital at 9:25 p. m. The city was startled and tense. Police, soldiers and sailors ran wildly through the streets. An outburst of shooting followed the explosion of two bombs which wounded seven persons. A third bomb exploded in another part of the city, wounding one person.

A short time later, several other bombs exploded at downtown street intersections, injuring 14 more. The body of an unidentified man, riddled with eight bullet holes, was found on the outskirts of the city, raising the death toll of week-end violence to 13.

Pedraza's order came while hundreds of public and private employees, under the urging of soldiers and sailors, abandoned the strike movement and trooped back to their jobs.

The student body at Freed-Hardeman college, Henderson, Tenn., includes boys named Walker, Hooper, jumper and Leeper.

His Revolt Lost, Venizelos Flies

Last of Seized Warships Surrendered to Greek Government

Copyright Associated Press
ATHENS, Greece — Elutherios Venizelos, his 12-day insurrection against Premier Panayotis Tsaldaris' government at an end, fled from his native Crete Tuesday to gain haven on the little Italian island of Cassos.

The cruiser Averoff, "flagship" of the rebel fleet, conveyed Venizelos, his wife and several other revolt chiefs, to the 25-mile-square islet, and afterward radioed the government that it was continuing to Greece.

With Venizelos' flight and the smashing of the rebels' land forces in Macedonia, the government's victory apparently was complete.

Recapture by loyal forces of the Averoff, which was expected to anchor off Phaleron Wednesday, completed the reconquest of the insurgents' sea forces, which for several days held Athens and its seaport, Piraeus, in fear of bombardment.

Earlier in the day the rebel destroyers Psara and Leon and the submarine Nerou were abandoned and taken over by loyal forces, while the rebel submarine Katsonis arrived at the Italian island of Patmos to be interned with all her complement.

An official announcement said the all of both sides in the land operations in Macedonia was only 10 dead and 91 wounded, indicating to observers here that the rebel resistance collapsed since Gen. George Kondylis, loyal generalissimo, got his weather-bound offensive under way.

A long expensive struggle lay before the Greek government to rehabilitate itself after the insurrection. There was no official estimate as to the monetary cost of the revolt.

A dispatch from Ghevghelli, Yugoslavia, said the cost of the uprising was estimated as no less than 20,000,000,000 drachmas (approximately $100,000,000), which is twice the amount of Greece's annual budget. It was predicted the task of liquidating this enormous liability would cripple the country for many years.

Police Stirred by Gypsy Marriage

Gypsies Take Girl Whose Brother Married One of Them

LAKE CHARLES, La. — (AP) — Department of Justice agents here Tuesday were studying the "gypsy marriage law" in the case of 15-year-old Rose Demetro of Washington, D. C., who has been traveling for two months with a gypsy caravan. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Petro Demetro, caught up with the gypsy family Sunday night at their camp here and had officers raid the camp and restore their daughter to them.

Demetro told officers that his daughter had been kidnapped in Washington the night of January 7 and the federal district attorney's office at Shreveport asked that six members of the gypsy camp be held on kidnapping charges.

Tuesday George Miller, one of the group arrested, claimed Rose as his wife "under gypsy law," and denied the charge of abduction.

"Rose's brother, he took our sister," officers quoted Alex Miller, another of the men arrested, as saying. "George, here, he takes Rose for his wife. That's gypsy law."

"Yes, yes that is so," George replied. "Rose is my wife. It's gypsy law for marriage."

Rose could not be reached to give her version of the case. Her father is a Washington goldsmith.
